Gorham Remembers 9/11

Sidewalk Project in Progress

BY PATRICK O'SHEA

The Public Works Department is replacing the sidewalk on the west side of South Street from Green Street to Morrill Avenue. The Town Council appropriated $14,000 for this project at their August 5, 2014 regular meeting. Public Works Director Bob Burns stated that this is a maintenance project that is long overdue.

The work is expected to be completed within the next two to three weeks. A blacktop surface and curbing will be added to finish the project. A crosswalk will also be added to assist in crossing South Street. The crosswalk will be located at the Green and Preble Streets intersection. The addition of a crosswalk is a recommendation from the Village Parking Study that was released this spring.

More than 200 runners and walkers-including 100+ Gorham residents-participated in the fourthannual 9/11 Memorial 5K Run/Walk under clear blue skies on September 14. The event, which began and ended in the Gorham Rec parking lot, benefits the Stephen Gordon Ward Memorial Scholarship Fund. Steve graduated from Gorham High School and worked as a CPA for Cantor Fitzgerald on the 101st floor of the North Tower of the World Trade Center.

Firefighters from Gorham and three other area fire departments participated and completed the 5K in full gear while carrying fire hoses. They wrote the number 343 on their faces to represent the number of first responders who died on September 11th. Participating fire fighters included Brandon Howard, Brandon Brichetto and Jared Wood from Gorham; Wendell Howard (GHS '92), Ross Larabee, Steve Coppi and Ron Giroux Jr. from Portland; Mark Giroux and John Keenan from Westbrook; and Brian Trefethen from Standish.

Howard organized the fire fighters and also arranged for a ladder fire truck that displayed the American flag hanging high over the start and finish lines. To start the event, the Star-Spangled Banner was sung by two nine-year-old girls, including Marin Graham, Steve's niece and the daughter of one of the race organizers-Steve's sister Katie Hazel. Annie Cunningham joined Marin as the second singer.

"The flag was an incredibly heartwarming surprise," says Hazel. "And although my daughter never met Steve, she feels strongly about being a part of the event knowing how much it means to me and the rest of our family."

Hazel adds that her family was honored this year to welcome Marcia Kucsma, widow of Gorham Fire Department Chief Deputy, Michael Kucsma Jr., who passed away in June, hours after responding to a serious accident. Marcia completed the course wearing her husband's uniform shirt

Ben Foster, a senior at GHS, won the race with a time of 17:05. Other Gorham residents winning their gender-age group included Maddie DeWitt, females 19 and under; David Hudson, males 20-29; Kelsey Wilson, females 20-29; Brendhan McDevitt, males 30-39; Kathy Heprier, females 50-59; Dale Rines, males 60-69; Diane Bell, females 60-69; and Kenneth Curtis, males 70 and older. The full list of Gorham participants appears belowsome ran while others walked.

NEWS FROM AUGUSTA

Workforce Training Key to Maine's Economic Future

BY REP. ANDREW MCLEAN

For a business to create jobs it needs a workforce ready to take up those jobs. If Maine hopes to grow its economy, it must first address the issue of its skills gap.

Businesses can't expand or set up shop in our state without confidence that we have workers who can effectively carry that business forward. That's why we need to make sure the skills of the workforce match those needed by employers.

Maine currently needs 15,000 new highly skilled workers in order to remain competitive nationwide. In the Maine Legislature, lawmakers on both sides of the aisle worked last year to develop provisions that address the skills gap in Maine.

One of the best ways to create a robust workforce is to equip more students and workers with a degree from a post-secondary institution. In the biennial budget, we included a measure to facilitate credit transfer from Maine's community colleges to its public universities. Students with or working toward an associate degree will now be able to easily take the skills and knowledge they've acquired and apply it to earning a four-year degree.

By requiring the state's university system to automatically accept credits earned at a community college in letter to the Editor

Maine, students will have one less hurdle to face when working toward a bachelor's degree.

Not every student who participates in higher education manages to secure a degree, yet the knowledge and skills they gained while in school are still valuable to employers. Some estimate there are more than 200,000 Mainers with some college experience but no degree. To address this issue, the budget allocated financial assistance to over 1,000 adult learners who need only a few extra courses to graduate and enter the workforce with a postsecondary degree.

Making sure our educators, businesses and workers are on the same page when it comes to what skills are needed and how those skills can be acquired is essential to reducing the skills gap in Maine.

A cornerstone of the biennial budget was the establishment of Maine industry partnerships. This cooperative initiative will help guide employees in Maine to high-skill, high-demand jobs while also connecting them to the proper training resources to prepare for those jobs.

The cooperative will target industry clusters to determine those that would be best served by workforce and economic development investments. This decision is based on factors such as the industry's economic growth potential, competitiveness, employment base and its role in the overall state economy.

Maine's workforce is ready to adapt to the modern economy and take on the new kinds of jobs that come along with it. First, however, we have to make sure the path to acquiring the necessary skills to secure those jobs is clear and more easily accessible.

That's what the measures developed by the Legislature's Joint Select Committee on Maine's Workforce and Economic Future accomplish. Lawmakers recognized that Maine would need to take strong action to keep its workforce competitive and the measures passed with resounding support in the Legislature.

There is still more work to be done and I look forward to engaging lawmakers on addressing other workforce needs in the future. Those critical improvements that will brighten Maine's economic outlook are an important step in the right direction. As always, I encourage you to email or call me with your thoughts, questions and concerns.

Dear Gorham Times Editor:

What makes a good, effective community leader? Those who have been given positions of leadership continually demonstrate principles and practices of good leadership by living the example. Amy Volk exemplifies these principles and practices.

As the current State Representative for House District 127 in Scarborough, Amy Volk has been a vocal proponent for business issues, serving on the Governor's State Workforce Investment Board as well as holding the position of Lead Minority Member of the Labor, Commerce, Research and Economic Development Committee for the last four years.

tion resulted in co-sponsoring Maine's charter school law, which made Maine the 43rd state to permit charter schools. A strong advocate for human rights, Amy championed LD1730, legislation intended to help victims of sex trafficking and abuse.

Impressive legislative record notwithstanding, I most admire Amy for her selfless volunteer work, generosity, intelligence and dedication to good cause. She volunteers in the school system; speaking in local classes to teach children how government works, as well as teaching Junior Achievement. She attends The Rock Church and is part of a group called Moms in Touch is on the Board of The Root Cellar in Portland, dedicating time to helping those in need who struggle to provide for themselves. Understanding the benefits of sport, Amy coached softball in Scarborough Little League and is an active volunteer with Softball and Cheering Boosters as well as travel sports teams.

Amy Volk is a good, respected community leader. One who will make an effective State Senator and continue to work to facilitate solutions for the long-term health of Maine.

Outward Bound with Jamie Carter

BY JACKIE FRANCIS Staff Writer

Curious to discover her own true mettle and intrigued by the idea of 15 days of independence and outdoor adventure, Gorham High School sophomore Jamie Carter completed a 15-day Youth Version ("YV") Mountaineering Course through the Colorado Outward Bound School in early August and experienced "self-discovery" like never before. "I thought going on this trip would be a good change in scenery," says 15-yearold Carter, "and I was looking forward to being independent and broadening my horizons, but these two weeks were probably the most challenging and emotional two weeks of my life.'

Carter became fascinated with the possibility of participating in an Outward Bound program after hearing about the experiences from her two cousins who had done just that. After considerable research, a bit of soul-searching and the backing and blessing from her parents, Carter booked her flight to Colorado for a life-changing adventure.

First up was making the trek to base camp in Marble, Colorado-each student carried over 50 pounds of gear including food and water in their backpacks. For two weeks, lunch and dinner consisted of freeze-dried lentils and dried fruit with each member of the five-man patrol responsible for collecting water and cooking. Campfires were not allowed, and, for that matter, neither was bathing. Carter's unwashed, waist-long hair was in the same ponytail for two weeks. "After

I took the elastic out of my hair, my hair didn't move," says Carter with a disbelieving laugh.

"I'd recommend [Outward Bound] to anyone--not only my age but any age--because it's a crazy adventure and it's the most life-changing and amazing experience ever."

"The course began with two days of rock climbing and rappelling in the Elk Mountains followed by nine days of backpacking and a 48-hour solo experience," says Carter, who, oddly enough, said she did not mind the 48 hours of solitary time where students are encouraged to not only fast for two days, but to spend alone time in the backcountry with no watch, no camera, no fire, not even a book. "We were counseled by our instructors to use this time for personal reflection on what we had learned so far on the trip."

"During our time in the mountains," says Carter, "we did a high bivouac [a temporary camp without cover] above 12,000 feet and attempted to climb three peaks. We were successful in two of our attempts which required roped travel over fourth and fifth class ridges." Carter says that was probably the scariest part of her adventure - mountain climbing with ropes attached to each person. "You learn to trust yourself and trust others more," she says. The two-week journey ended with a community service project and a personal challenge. Carter's personal challenge was to run three miles up 1,800 feet of vertical elevation and four miles down.

When asked if she ever thought of giving up when she was pushed to unthinkable limits, her reply was quick and self-assured. "Before I left for Outward Bound, my dad said he believed in me and he knew I could do this," says Carter. "I wanted my parents to be proud of me because I love my family so much."

"It's crazy to think that I overcame my fears and did, what was in my opinion, the impossible. I'd recommend [Outward Bound] to anyone-not only my age but any age-because it's a crazy adventure and it's the most life-changing and amazing experience ever."

Not Your Average 5K, How to Train for Obstacle Events

BY STACEY COLEMAN

Obstacle course race (OCR) events have become very popular. These are not your average 5K races. They require a different type of training that calls for climbing, pulling, crawling, balancing, using endurance, and overcoming fear. With these events going mainstream, it is important to train appropriately to ensure you get through the course safely and have fun.

I have competed in and trained others for many OCR's and have gained inside perspective on how to prepare. A few years back, I was chosen as one of nine personal trainers in America to attend a weekend conference for Spartan Race (an OCR business) in an effort to develop physical training programs for their business. I met with the Spartan Race owner and university professors to discuss topics such as nutrition, exercise science, and mental toughness.

Rather than join forces with Spartan Race, which is now a worldwide event, I decided to take the knowledge learned from the conference and bring it back to Gorham. In 2011, My-FIT-24 introduced our first local OCR.

Our goal is to create courses challenging enough for the toughest athlete, yet one in which the average person can complete with a great training program. People accomplish goals they never imagined possible while building character, teamwork, community, and a true sense of accomplishment.

Looking to enter an obstacle event? Here are some tips:

Be ready to get dirty. You will get muddy, wet, cold, and sweaty. Wear material that dries quickly, light shoes, and keep in mind, mud stains, so don't wear your favorite shirt. Train in all conditions outdoors because the weather could do anything.

Don't focus all efforts on running. Although you will be running a lot, remember, it is only from obstacle to obstacle. You may run half a mile and then switch gears to climb a wall, crawl through mud, or test your balance. Train to switch from a slow and steady run to power and speed. Run half a mile then switch to three to five minutes of explosive exercise such as a circuit of jump squats, bear crawls, pull ups, and push ups. Repeat.

Pull. Recent studies have shown that average workouts lack posterior chain exercises. Most people only work the muscle they see in the mirror, which is not good for your body. Frontal muscles such as chest, biceps, and quads are important; however, it is just as important to include the back, triceps, hamstrings and other posterior muscles needed for the climbing and pulling events in an OCR. Exercises that strengthen these areas could include: pull-ups, rope climbs, and lunges.

Grip strength. You will most likely be required to carry an oddly shaped object over distance, hold your body in tension over time, and/ or climb rope or monkey bars. Train by doing farmer carries (weighted object in each hand carried over a distance), hanging from a bar using only your hands, or using a rope for a variety of climbing and pulling exercises.

Have fun. OCR's are about building people up. They are less about your time and more about accomplishment, teamwork and community. Choose an event that supports a local cause that means something to you. Help a stranger on the course by assisting them over an obstacle or just giving them a high five. Feel great about the obstacles you face. You will be doing things most people could never imagine doing. Enjoy the moment and be proud.

Pollinators in the Garden

By Linda Treworgy Faatz

Pollinators are responsible for up to 80% of the world's flowering plants. Without them, humans and wildlife would not have much to eat or look at. Think about the ants, bats, bees, and beetles that work so hard to encourage blooms. A few more helpers you hope to see in your yard include birds, butterflies, flies, moths and wasps.

This has been a wonderful blooming season thanks to the large variety of insects that came in to enjoy the bounty. They hovered around the early blooming lilacs and rhododendrons. Even before these shrubs were in bloom, the field was yellow with dandelion blossoms. Soon after, the peonies were crawling with ants. Never have I seen so much white clover blanketing fields and lawns. The bees devoured that nectar all summer.

The rambling roses on my split rail fence were teaming with bees. Their pollinating friends of all kinds set up camp for the summer. The sunny days of mid summer brought them buzzing to the liatris and day lilies. Thanks to pollinators, the vegetables produced a bountiful crop in the raised beds behind the potting shed. Borage planted near my vegetables encouraged the bees.

Fields and tall grassy areas, filled with Queen Anne's Lace and goldenrod mixed with purple thistles, are amazing areas for observing pollinating insects. By now, the sedum is in full bloom and bees love those blossoms. A mass of sedum gives wonder-

SEPTEMBER 2, 2014 Town Council Report

By ROBIN SOMES Staff Writer

A Public Hearing at this month's Town Council meeting provided additional information on the current proposal to renovate and expand the existing Public Safety Building to accommodate the needs of the Police and Fire departments. The estimated cost for the project is $4.99 million, including a contingency subsidy, to be funded with bonds for up to 20 years. Andy Hyland of Port City Architecture provided a presentation on the project, offering additional details to what he had presented at the August meeting. Hyland elaborated on the needs for the project, noting that what comprises the police station now "is not even marginally sufficient for proper evidence and records storage." He also cited the lack of interview rooms, processing space for convicted individuals, secure parking, as well as technology related shortcomings. In regard to the Fire Department, Hyland said the existing facilities were also lacking, pointing out the need for adequate training space, a proper disinfection area for rescue equipment and gear, a sufficient administration area and appropriate apparatus bays. The "living and sleeping quarters are intolerable, and the existing building is not compliant with many of the current codes," he reported. "These deficiencies are hampering both public safety departments from performing their duties efficiently and effectively."

As for the new design, a 10,250 square foot building is planned for the Police Department and would be situated in front of the existing Public Safety Building, which would undergo renovation and expansion to house the Fire Department. Hyland, whose company, Port City Architecture, has completed numerous municipal projects, made the assurance that the design "is cost efficient and energy efficient." According to Hyland, not only would the design address all of the existing deficiencies, both the Police and Fire Departments would be able to service the needs of the community as it continues to experience growth.

A referendum will be included in the upcoming November 4th general election for the project proposal.

In other action, the Town Council voted:

• 7-0 to renew the liquor license for Gorham Sports Center at 215 Narragansett Street.

• 7-0 to approve a liquor license for the Ocean Garden Restaurant at 390 Main Street.

• 7-0 to accept the bill of sale from Sold, Inc. for the Wastewater Pump Station, Force Main and Collector Sewers, with Town Manager David Cole being authorized to execute an agreement with the Portland Water District transferring these facilities to them.

• 7-0 to authorize the Town Manager and Finance Director to solicit bids for the following properties acquired through foreclosed tax liens:

1. Approximately 2.9 acres on Deering Road (Tax Map 14, Lot 6.101)

2. Approximately 13.9 acres on Deering Road (Tax Map 14, Lot 6.102)

3. The house and land at 4 Briarwood Lane (Tax Map 39, Lot 40)

After the bid process, the Town Manager and Finance Director are to provide their recommendations to the Town Council for the disposition of these properties.

• 7-0 to designate the Gorham Art Alliance as the Local Arts Agency.

• 7-0 to authorize the purchase of a 14-passenger handicap accessible bus for the Recreation Department at a cost not to exceed $56,900.

• 7-0 to accept a bid for a sixwheel plow truck for a total price of $129,816.58, which includes a load cover, a sander and a liquid calcium spray system.

• 7-0 to accept a bid of H P Fairfield for a trackless tractor for a total price of $131,723.

@YOUR LIBRARY Things are Buzzing @ Your Library

By PAMELA TURNER, DIRECTOR Baxter Memorial Library

It is a great time to visit the Baxter Memorial Library. We are buzzing with activity!

Story times and our adult book discussion series have begun for the season. We also have a variety of lectures, author events and children's events going on in September and October. Please check out our calendar of events at www.baxterlibrary.org.

The Friends of Baxter Memorial Library are joining the Gorham Garden Club to bring a nationally known gardener, horticulturist, speaker and author to the library. Joan Calder will present a lecture on bees, butterflies and other pollinators on Tuesday, September 30 at 6:30 p.m. at the library. This lecture is geared for adults and young adults age 12 and older. Plants, bee pods and Calder's book will be for sale at the event. We will also have a raffle for a "pollinator hotel" on display now at the library. Refreshments will be served.

Beginning in October and throughout the school year we will be open early at 11 a.m. on most Wednesday early release days for Gorham Public Schools. We started this last school year and it was very popular.

The Friends of BML fall book sale will be held on Friday, October 17th from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Saturday, October 18th from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Gorham Recreation Multipurpose Room next door to the library. We already have a huge selection of donated books for this book sale.

Gorham is applying for a grant for sidewalk improvements to the Little Falls area. In order to be eligible to receive this grant, the town must show that 50% or more of the residents living in this area would be classified as low to moderate income (LMI). The town is in the process of sending out surveys to residents of this area and will also go door to door to obtain the necessary information to move forward with the grant.

The owner of Amato's has expressed interest in purchasing 21 Main Street in order to create more parking for Amato's. His plan would be to eliminate the curb cut that now exists and add a right turn only curb cut onto Main Street. The Board recommended that the Town Council pursue options to allow for additional parking for Amato's while preserving a designated parking area to remain for use by 21 Main St. tenants.

Town and Country Cabinets, which was destroyed by fire last spring, is operating on a limited basis. They will need a sprinkler system and the owner has approached the town about getting public water to the site and financing the cost of adding a sprinkler system. GEDC President Tom Ellsworth planned to meet with the business owner and thought that utilizing the loan program to help finance this project was a possibility.

SEPTEMBER 2014 Planning Board Results

Discussed at the September Planning Board meeting were:

The Site Plan Review Committee has approved plans for a real estate office on a vacant lot adjacent to the flag center. Proposed building will be les than 2,000 square feet.

The Planning Board approved eight single-family condos on lot 25 of Allen Acres subdivision.

Sappi presented a proposal to upgrade portage and car-top boat access as well as parking adjacent to the Presumpscot River on land owned by the Presumpscot Land Trust at the end of Tow Path Road. A gravel parking lot at the site was also approved.

Insurance Auto Auctions, Inc. (IAAI) proposed a plan to expand by 5.74 acres their gravel storage area for overflow parking on land leased from Shawn Moody off Narragansett Street. IAAI has been leasing 11.68 acres from Moody for the past three years. The leased land is used for salvage storage and auctions. It is a non-conforming use but the Zoning Board of Appeals granted approval in October 2012 and extended the approval until October 2014.

The Board approved improvements to the Little Falls Recreational facility that included multi-purpose fields along with parking and associated storm water management.

The Board tabled a proposal for improvements to the Chick property athletic fields with new baseball fields and associated parking as well as multi-purpose fields, basketball courts and a reconfiguration of the existing skating area.

The Board approved canopy signs for the Cumberland Farms on County Road.

Michael and Melissa Gould's fourlot subdivision off Shaw's Mill Road was approved.

The Board discussed Kasprzak Land Holding's request for approval of 140 additional dwelling units with 35 new buildings in the Pheasant Knoll Condominium subdivision.

GHS Fall Sports Highlights

Compiled by Jeff Pike Sports Editor

Field Hockey: The Rams were undefeated (5-0) at press time with a third-place ranking in Western Maine Class A. Darcie Brown scored both goals in 2-1 win over Thornton Academy on September 8 while Andrea Stemm did the same September 10 in a 2-1 win over Westbrook. Stemm with five goals and Brown with four were also leading the team in goals scored. Reagan Emerson had chipped in with two goals and three assists while Charlotte Smith had two goals and an assist.

Boys' Soccer: At press time the Rams were ranked first in Western Maine Class A with a record of 5-0-1. Cody Elliot scored two goals as the Rams defeated Bonny Eagle 4-0 on September 9. Ethan Orach and Alex York split the game in net while posting the shut-out.

Girls' Soccer: Jenny Darasz scored the winning goal on an assist from Emily Bragg while Renae Staples and Emma Smith teamed-up for a shut-out in net as the Rams defeated previously-unbeaten Deering, 1-0, on September 17. At press time, the Rams were 4-1 and ranked fourth in Western Maine Class A.

Volleyball: The Rams improved to 2-3 with a 3-0 September 18 win over Windham (25-20, 25-19, 25-23). Within the statewide

Class A rankings, the victory moved Gorham up to tenth place, which is the final slot for qualifying for the post-season tournament. In the win, Ciara Stillson led the team with six kills, one ace, and dive digs. Maddie Bennett chipped in with 11 digs while Cassie Landry tallied seven service points.

Golf: At press time the golf team's record stood at 3-2. Kenny Tuttle had the low nine-hole total of the year thus far with a 34 against Westbrook on September 3 at Gorham Country Club. The other lowest nine-hole stroke totals thus far this season had come from Lucas Roop (37) and Tim O'Neil (38).

Boys' Cross Country: Two runners had turned in 5K times among the top 10 in the entire state this fall season, including Jesse Southard (fourth-best time—16:30) and Ben Foster (eighth—at 16:38). In a September 19 three-team meet victory over Marshwood and Biddeford, Southard and Foster finished first and second followed by Spencer Linscott in sixth, Colin Jones in ninth, and Drew York in tenth.

Girls' Cross Country: Two runners have turned in 5K times among the top 50 in the entire state this fall season, including Anna Slager (ninth-best time—20:10) and Bridget Rosignol (31st—21:09). Slager posted her 20:10 time while winning a four-team meet September 12 in Westbrook.

event to benefit the scholarship took place on the 10th anniversary in 2011. This year 10 family members assisted Hazel and her sister Susan Moore in coordinating the event, and 30 non-related volunteers also pitched in.

"Every year, we've had amazing responses from community businesses, community members, GHS students and family friends coming out to volunteer for the event," Hazel says. "All four years we've had many members of the boys' varsity basketball team flagging our course. This event for us is really about healing, getting together, having a venue for the community to come out and continue to grieve and heal from 9/11/01—as well as for my family to have something positive to focus our minds and energies on."

Two from Gorham Inducted into Little East Conference USM Hall of Fame: Among the individuals to be inducted into the third class of the Little East Conference Hall of Fame will be former USM standout student-athletes Julie Plant (GHS Class of 1996) and Gorham resident Jeff Bowers (GHS Class of 1983). The induction ceremony takes place October 26 in Providence, RI. A high-scoring forward for the USM men's basketball team from 1983-84 and from 1987-89, Bowers averaged 17.2 points for his career. In his final season, he led USM to the NCAA Division III National Championship Final Four while averaging 20.3 points and 6.4 rebounds per game. Plant was two-sport standout for USM from 1996-2000 as a member of the women's basketball and softball teams. In her final basketball season, Plant was named Little East Conference and Maine Women's Basketball Coaches Association Player of the Year. Plant also guided USM to appearances in the NCAA Division III National Championship game in 1998 and 2000. In softball, Plant was the only USM softball alumnae to earn NFCA All-American honors, with achievements that made her the school's career leader in runs scored (151), hits (206), doubles (36), runs batted in (110), total bases (304) and stolen bases (59).

Gorham Golfer on Fire: Saint Joseph's College of Maine sophomore Mike Caron (GHS Class of 2013) is off to a fast start in the fall golf season. He has already been named the Great Northeast Athletic Conference Player of the Week twice—the first golfer from the college to claim back-to-back Golfer of the Week conference honors. Caron's awards were keyed by a fourth-place finish in the Maine State Intercollegiate Championship September 13-14 where his score (71-76) was the lowest ever recorded by a Monks golfer in the annual event. Caron also captured co-medalist honors with a 75-stroke total to lead his team to a fourth-place finish in an eight-team tournament hosted by the University of Maine-Farmington at the Sunday River Golf Club in Bethel on September 11.

GHS Soccer Grad Earn College Accolades: Saint Joseph's College freshman Austin Bell (GHS Class of 2014) was selected as the Great Northeast Athletic Conference Men's Soccer Rookie of the Week on September 10. Bell, a forward, scored the first two goals of his collegiate career in a 5-0 triumph over the University of Maine-Presque Isle on September 6.

Obstacle Course Champs: The My-FIT-24 Team won first place at the Beach Raid at Old Orchard Beach on September 13. The team included three Gorham residents—Maria McInnis, Brendan McDevitt, and Bill MacDonald. The event featured 12 obstacles over a 5K course.

Young Motocross Competitor Earns Top Awards:

Owen Berry, a nine-year-old from Gorham who has raced motorcycles since he was four-years-old, has earned championship status in Motocross events nine times in his career. He earned his fifth Gold Cup this past summer and closed out the racing season with championships in the Maine Motocross Series 65 Open and 65C classes. Berry's sponsors include S and J Gravel, D & L Foundations, White Rock Outboard, The Pompeo Team Real Estate and Mortgage, Cash for Clunkers, and Thatcher's Restaurant.

Candidate Forum on Public Education Sept. 30

Maine School Superintendents Association

A legislative candidates' forum focused on K-12 education is being held Tuesday, Sept. 30, in Gorham, bringing together those running for the Maine House and Senate in Cumberland County and the school boards and superintendents from the districts they serve.

The forum is scheduled to run from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at Gorham Middle School. It is being co-sponsored by the Maine School Boards Association and Maine School Superintendents Association and is one of nine such forums being held across the state in September. Maine School Management Association, the umbrella organization for MSBA and MSSA, is coordinating the forums and has prepared position papers reflecting the two organizations' stand on key issues affecting public schools.

Candidates will be briefed on those issues and asked to give their views on public education.

The forum will cover the need for adequate school funding, including help for economically disadvantaged students; expanding pre-kindergarten programs; implementing teacher evaluations; protecting the school board's legal right to adopt educational policy; and the future of charter schools.

Did You Know? September is Attendance Awareness Month

Count ME IN! Maine and Attendance Works

A new study (Olson, 2014) shows that students who missed two to four days in September were five times more likely to be chronically absent during the school year than students who missed fewer than two days.

Starting as early as kindergarten, too many absences can cause children to fall behind in school. Missing 10 percent, which can equal a day or two every few weeks, can make it harder to learn to read and absences can affect the whole classroom if the teacher has to slow down learning to help children catch up.

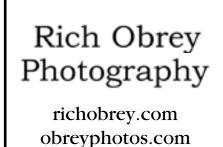

Steps to do at home to start building regular school attendance would be to: set up a bedtime and morning routine; lay out clothes and pack backpacks the night before; don't let children stay home unless truly sick; if child is anxious to go to school, talk to teachers, school counselors or other parents for advice on how to help the child feel more comfortable and excited about learning; and avoid medical appointments and extended trips when school is in session.

Start building healthy habits now so children learn right away that going to school on time, every day is important. Several Narragansett School staff members took the popular social media ALS Bucket Challenge the day before school started and raised $135. Pictured (from right to left) are: Gael Ketch, Jane Seidenberg, Betsy Clark, Maryanne Connolly, and Jacqueline Durant-Harthorne. Other participants not pictured include: Elise Bothel, Laurie Kenny, Kim Wright, Sylvia Hawkes, and Robyn Flint.

School Spirit at Gorham High

By Avery Arena GHS Intern

Gorham High School recently held a pep rally as part of the school spirit challenge sponsored by WGME CBS 13 and was aired by Good Day Maine. School administrators, Student Council, and the athletic director, Tim Spear, all worked together to put the event on for the first time, and it is all going to a good cause.

Each participating school competed to donate the most food, all of which was delivered to the Good Shepard Food Bank. The goal for GHS was to fill a soccer goal with food.

In addition to the food drive, the rally highlighted some of the schools sports teams, clubs and organizations, including robotics, band, soccer, volleyball, and field hockey. Before the events started, there was a breakfast provided by Mr. Bagel, and then the classes competed against each other in a series of Hunger Games inspired "Homecoming Games" such as dodge ball and tug of war.

Schools from all over the state are involved this year. Each Friday a different school's spirit rally will be covered by WGME CBS 13 Fox 23 live that morning as well as covered by the twelve and five thirty news.

This was a great way to kick off the start of the year, all while giving back to the community. Student Rhiannon Hatch said, "The fact that seniors to freshmen are here at six in the morning shows their enthusiasm for school spirit." This was one of many Homecoming events, along with Homecoming games and the dance also happening during that week.

For more information or to see videos of the pep rally, visit www.goghs. org. From there, watch WGME's video clips of the food challenge event.

Dear Gorham Times Editor:

With election season upon us, I would like to take this opportunity to support Amy Volk's election to the State Senate, representing-District 30. Amy has always been willing and able to assist any activity or organization, donating her time, expertise, and efforts to the cause at hand. She has always been a positive person, willing to collaborate within a group or take the lead to get a job done!

During her term as a State House Representative, Amy has been involved in various committees, most notably the passing of her bill to protect women that have fallen victim to sex trafficking. Having a daughter of my own, it is certainly legislation that was gravely needed for young women that are not as blessed and need protection.

Amy has also been a vocal advocate within the House for Maine's small business owners. I appreciate the support that Amy gives to Maine's small business community on a consistent basis.

I have enjoyed following Amy's efforts on our behalf through her detailed newsletter and have been consistently impressed by the Committees and legislation that she has been involved with. Amy is a hard worker that truly has her district's best interest at heart. For these reasons, I would ask that you educate yourself as to Amy's contributions and vote for Amy Volk for State Senate in November.

Marilyn Amoroso, Gorham

ful September color while the insects glean the last bit of nectar from the waning blossoms of the tall globe thistle. Cutting back those spent blossom stems by a foot will give a new flush of flowers for the late fall insects.

Long ago I planted curly allium. Over the years, as many perennials will do, the plants multiplied and I divided. Knowing that a mass of one kind of plant will give a great splash in the garden, I created a special corner for the many allium divisions. The late August blooms were spectacular and the bees called their friends in swarms.

As the season progressed, the many flower heads have produced seeds for the next season. This seed production can only happen when pollen is transferred between flowers of the same species. We must keep the pollinators healthy and happy.

All of this insect activity continues in my yard and fields because I use no pesticides. There is much to be gained by caring for our land in an ecologically sound manner. It is up to us to nurture the many varieties of plants we have growing and consider planting new varieties that will attract the pollinators.

You can learn more valuable information on Tuesday, Sept. 30 at 6:30 p.m. at the Baxter Library when Joan Calder, a lifelong gardener and nationally known horticulturist, will speak on Pollinators In The Garden--You Are Their Heroes.

GORHAM BUSINESS EXCHANGE MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

National Attachments: Heavy Equipment Attachments and Tools

"We're in this for the long"

baul and looking forward to strengthening the roots

we bave planted

in Gorbam."

Scott Guimond on site at Ground Zero

By KEITH NICELY Gorbam Business Exchange President

25 years ago Scott Guimond ventured off to build a company he would call National Attachments. Even though the scope of the business would become national as well as global, his heart never left Gorham. He saw where he wanted to go with this company far before it became a reality. Guimond's wife, Kathleen, was busy raising their children, yet, with her accounting background, she also oversaw the financial side of the growing company in between her duties with the children. As time went on, she has become more involved in the day-today operation. Today, she is the CFO of National Attachments.

Unless you are in the market for a grapple, concrete pulverizer, stump harvester, steel shears or a rock saw, you probably do not know what the company does. Guimond says, "We provide quality tools and attachments that go on the end of heavy equipment for various applications." Maybe you don't know what they do, but their attachments have been involved in the demolition of Mile High Stadium, Boston Garden and 3 River Stadium, to name a few. When the Red Sox won the Pennant in 2004. National Attachments had equipment on site the next day to demolish the old Busch Stadium to make way for the new. When our country was attacked 13 years ago, Guimond's passion to help took him and 11 of his specialized grapples to Ground Zero. A grapple is a tool attached to a large piece of machinery and operates like a hand, opening & closing to grasp objects. They were ideal for the job of delicately picking through the rubble. The company's tools are made to endure tough situations such as this, and he owns the trademark "Ground Zero Proven," which is his badge that proves these tools can perform the toughest of jobs and not break.

Although Guimond spent 25 years building a global business with over 16,000 customers, he has also worked locally to support Shaw Brothers, Grondin, Cianbro, Foglio and many other local companies. They are the > second oldest Takeuchi dealership in the country with more than 500 units sold.

When asked what was next, Guimond shared a bit of his vision. "Today, all our children have their hands in the company in some way.

I told Gabe, Kate, Scotty and Shelbi that 25 years will go by like a blink and they are very fortunate to be in the position to move this company forward for another 25 years."

National Attachments owns approximately 18 acres on Rte. 25 and will be pursuing developing a high quality storefront that will serve as the corporate headquarters and will include a local retail presence. They have spent the last 25 years focusing on building a national and international customer base but now, with the help of family, they would also like to focus on local opportunities including state contracts, municipalities and recyclers of all kinds. "We're in this for the long haul and looking forward to strengthening the roots we have planted in Gorham."

Car Least of her Worries

Partridge Lane caller reported an abandoned vehicle. Officer made contact with owner who stated she was out roller blading earlier and fell on her face, was taken to ER by a friend and has a concussion. She will get car tomorrow.

Flaggy Meadow Road caller thought there was a prowler. Officer checked the area and believed there were large June bugs tapping against the screen as they were attracted to the inside lights.

Loose horses on Burnham Road had been returned to their owner. Owner reported coyotes were scaring the horses that were then running through the fence.

Officer traveling south on Fort Hill Road observed a person passed out in the driver's seat of a vehicle.

Caller reported witnessing a vehicle traveling 10 MPH on Gray Rd. and the operator appearing intoxicated when she got out.

Officer located a vehicle that had been called in as driving erratically. The operator was not intoxicated but had actually called in the vehicle in front of her.

Murray Drive caller reported a contractor she had fired last year was at her house and wanted him removed.

Plummer Road woman had issues with her 16-year-old daughter not listening to her. Daughter took the car after being told not to and mother was angry. Caller's husband had lost car keys somewhere on Rte. 202 between Windham and Scarborough.

Mosher Road caller claimed another driver pointed what he believed to be a handgun at him after a road rage incident.

Officer was in Moody's lot entering notes from an earlier call into his mobile data terminal, when a truck occupied by three people passed exiting Moody's Collision Center. Once it passed officer he could see the truck bed was loaded with car parts. Two officers approached the truck and issued summons for theft to the three people in the truck.

Officer assisted US Marshals Service with sex offender compliance checks in Westbrook, Gorham, Standish and Windham.

Woodland Road caller stated the residence had been broken into but there was no sign of forced entry.

Edgefield Road man posted a sofa for sale on Craigslist. He got a response from an interested party from New York and later received a check for $2,200. He was only asking $600. He was calling to see what he should do. Both agreed it was a scam.

Back in Motion PHYSICAL THERAPY, LLC Hands-on care that makes pain relief possible

See why people have continued to choose Back in Motion as their #1 pain specialist for 20 years.

"I love how you get to know the PTs. They do their best to pin point the problem and alleviate the pain and discomfort. My whole family goes there. The convenience is great and they have a great reputation."

~Holly Carter

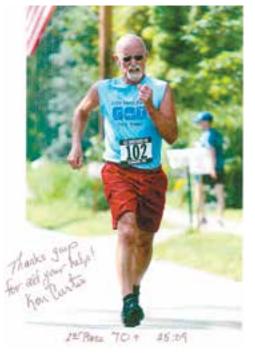

"Over the past 10 years, every member of our family has benefitted from the very professional and friendly services that Back in Motion has to offer, some of us more then once. They have never failed to correct any problem thrown at them and were actually very helpful in diagnosing some specific injuries. No question, in our eyes the best physical therapy center around."

Thanks Back In Motion

~The Sawyer Family

"I have recommended Back in Motion to many friends and family members. The staff at Back in Motion is knowledgeable and friendly. They supported not only my desire to return to good health but to continue with my varied sports activities. I am very grateful for their concern, patience, and honoring of my needs throughout the healing process."

~Ken Curtis

"If Humpty Dumpty had access to the staff of Back in Motion he would be sitting atop his great wall! Having suffered through various injuries over the past 20 years the folks at Back in Motion have always been successful at getting me back in the saddle."
